Cars Have Ultra Innovations, Need Shock-Resistant Seats

A SHOCKING ITEM: I have read with interest of the newest innovations in the automobile manufacturing business. They are all designed to make driving a greater pleasure for the man or woman behind the wheel, in the seat beside the wheel and in the back seat.

I have read of Jetaway Hydraulic transmission and Starfire styling, and of Torsion Level riding.

I know of the improved variable pitch Dynaflo and of Super Turbo-Fire.

And there is Lifeguard steering and Lifeguard padding and other Lifeguard features. And there's Strata-Flight Hydra-Matic transmission too.

There are big 285-horsepower jobs which move with astounding maneuverability and improved suspension, and there is Powersterle, Firepower engines and Pushbutton driving.

Then there are magnificent jobs with 305 horsepower engines and the finest features, there's the Forward Look, Turbo-Torque power and Jet-Fin styling.

There's about anything there a fellow would want, and it's all well and good. In fact, it's more than well and good. It's superfine and wonderful, the way they're making the new cars nowadays.

But with winter with us and these frosty mornings forcing us to wear more of the woolens on the outside, I wish to state my piece.

How about insulated keyholes and door handles to protect poor guys like me and thousands of others I know from getting the daylight shocked out when we slide across the plastic seat and then touch some metal?

Oh boy, oh boy, but it's a funny feeling. You know the shock is coming when you get ready to put the key into the ignition keyhole. You start bravely, then falter about a couple of inches away. And sometimes that spark will reach right out and grab you anyhow.

And then after you've been driving a while and start to get out—you unforgettingly grab the handle and you'll reach right out and grab you again.

There's only one thing to do: Wait until next summer when you discard the woolens in favor of cottons. Then things won't be so shocking. And then next winter! Shocks again unless I can get in the upper bracket and buy a car with static-resistant seats.

I NOTED WITH interest the sign which said "Attic Treasures." Then I learned attic treasures and white elephants are synonymous, if that's the way you spell it.

And there were other signs, saying Christmas Gifts and Toys, Food, Potted Plants, Candy and Baked Goods, and Aprons. All of these are the departments in the bazaar to be held Thursday from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. at the Presbyterian church.

This bazaar is given annually by the Women's Guild of the church and is the guild's only money-making project of the year.

In addition to the items in the above departments for sale, you can buy chili, pie, cake and coffee to fill up a bit on the premises.

Sen. Douglas Urges Federal Action to Aid Southern Illinois

Addresses Meeting Held Thursday At Court House

United States Senator Paul Douglas speaking Tuesday afternoon in Harrisburg at the court house urged that the federal government take definite action to help the depressed areas in Southern Illinois and elsewhere in the country.

"For nearly three years," declared Sen. Douglas, "from fifteen to thirty per cent of the industrial workers of southern Illinois have been unemployed."

The communities have done their best to attract industry but with rare exceptions have been unsuccessful.

"Despite the fact that we Democrats have been calling attention to this problem for over two years, the administration has done nothing but set up a few committees which have promoted conversations but have not produced jobs."

"Two years ago Congressman Bolling and I introduced a bill to construct public facilities in these depressed areas such as hospitals, roads, water and sewage systems, etc. Every administrative agency under the Republicans opposed this measure. Last winter, as chairman of the Joint Committee on the Economic Report, I urged that a full program be sponsored by the Federal government for this purpose and later in the session, I introduced a bill which would take definite steps to improve conditions in the depressed areas. The chief features of this bill are the following:

"1. It authorizes the appropriation of $100 million for the construction of public facilities in these depressed areas. This would include the building of hospitals, water and sewage systems, roads, etc. Congressmen Gray and I have been successful in getting funds appropriated to complete Devil's Kitchen dam and lake, and the firing squad are asked to meet at the Legion building at 10 a.m. on Veterans Day.

"2. It authorizes the appropriation of another $100 million to be loaned to private industry for the construction of industrial buildings and purchase of machinery to start new industries. This would not be used to draw industry from one section to another, but to start new plants which would put unemployed labor to work producing goods which the nation needs.

"3. It provides for re-training the unemployed by giving them thirteen additional weeks of benefit on condition that they take the necessary training courses.

Nation Must Remain Strong

"4. It provides for further distribution of processed surplus foods to the needy of these areas.

"5. It provides for efficient administration with a central administration and local and area committees.

"Recently, the administration has endorsed a large proportion of this program and I hope we can get them to actively support it. In any event I should like to ask that the people of southern Illinois study the proposal and if they approve, give the measure their vigorous support."

Senator Douglas, touching on the foreign situation, declared it would be a mistake to believe that Soviet Russia has changed its policy and that under no condition should we let our guard down. "The United States must keep strong, and continue to work through the UN and NATO," the speaker stated.

The body lies in state at the Gaskins funeral home.

Biggers Praised For Fund Drive By S. A. Board

Atty. John W. Biggers, who headed the fall fund campaign for the Salvation Army, was praised by the Salvation Army officers and by board members at a wind-up meeting held at the post's church on West Locust street.

Biggers, who headed the most successful Salvation Army drive here in eight or nine years, was praised for his hard work and perseverance and his ability to keep the drive going to a successful conclusion.

Lt. Andrew Sands reported that the drive has netted $4,404.92 in cash, plus coal from Sahara, sweaters from Stricklin-Taylor men's store and some paint which will put the total a little above $5,000.

"This will keep the Salvation Army operating in the county at least for another year," Biggers stated in his remarks to the board.

"I had fine co-operation from the public during the campaign," he continued. "The local business section did mighty well. But if it hadn't been for Eldorado and Carrier Mills coming through in fine style, the campaign would not have been so good."

He said that two labor union checks had arrived recently, $70.50 from Progressive Mine Workers Local 165 and $25 from

Farmwife Gets Convertible as TV Consolation Prize

NEW YORK — Mrs. Polly Culbertson, a farmwife from Pottstown, Pa., who blew a chance at $16,000 on a TV quiz show, headed back to a hospital bed today with a 1956 convertible in tow as a consolation prize.

Mrs. Culbertson, who suffers from arthritis, spent the past week in a hospital at Valley Forge, Pa., after piling up an $8,000 stake in the category, "literature," on "The $64,000 Question."

Her husband, retired Naval Captain W. L. Culbertson, a coronary thrombosis case, also is a patient in the same hospital.

The 39-year-old contestant, who had successfully answered a series of questions on books in her previous appearance, was given the chance Tuesday night of doubling her winnings or bowing out. She chose to go on, but was stymied completely by a multiple-part query on utopian literature.

She was asked to name the authors of "The Republic," "Erewhon," "Looking Backward," "Brave New World" and "Utopia."

But when emcee Hal March asked for her answers, Mrs. Culbertson could only shake her head and say: "No . . . no . . . no."

The answers were, in order, Plato, Samuel Butler, Edward Bellamy, Aldous Huxley and Sir Thomas More.

the carpenter's union. More checks from unions still could come in, he declared.

Lt. Sands said that the Salvation Army works in this county on a budget set up at between $8,000 and $9,000 annually. Besides the annual drive, funds come from sales of the War Cry magazine, street collections, church function collections and from the money received in the Christmas ket- tles, he explained. The latter money is used to provide Christ- mas cheer for poor families.

Lt. Sands announced that there would be revival services at the Army's church at 512 West Locust street Nov. 15 through Nov. 20 with the Rev. Walter Williamson of Brooklyn, N.Y., a blind evangelist, conducting the services.

Stevenson Far In Front Of Democratic Candidates In UP Poll of Women

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Adlai E. Stevenson rates high with men voters but higher with the women. He is far in front of the pack for next year's Democratic presidential nomination.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon also seems slightly more popular among women than men voters, but he has no comparable advantage over other Republicans who might be nominated next year.

These conclusions are based on an unusual sampling of political opinion just completed by the United Press. Results of a poll among 100 selected male voters was reported on Oct. 26. A poll among women in the same pattern now has been completed.

Seventeen suitably located United Press bureaus made the sampling. Each asked a given number of representative women to state who they believe at this time to be the most likely Democratic and Republican nominees next year, assuming that President Eisenhower does not seek a second term. It was requested that the participants name the individuals most likely to be nominated rather than their personal choices.

Foretelling a scramble among Republicans if Mr. Eisenhower drops out, the women scattered their fire among 11 first choice Republicans who might be nominated. But they limited the Democratic field to 6 names. That followed the pattern of the men who last month named 13 Republicans and 6 Democrats.

Here are the leaders in the women's poll:

Democrats

Adlai E. Stevenson	66
Averell Harriman	13
Estes Kefauver	3

Republicans

Richard M. Nixon	37
Earl Warren	21
William F. Knowland	9
Goodwin J. Knight	3
George M. Humphrey	3
Henry Cabot Lodge	3
Milton Eisenhower	3

The leaders in the men's poll had been: Democrats — Stevenson 55, Harriman 31, Kefauver 5. Republicans — Nixon 36, Warren 25, Thomas E. Dewey 6, Milton Eisenhower 6, Knowland 5.

The also-rans in the women's poll were: Democrats — Stevenson 55, Harriman 31, Lausche 1, William O. Douglas 1. Two women answered "don't know." Republicans — Harold Stassen 2, John Foster Dulles 1, Herbert Brownell 1, Christian A. Herter 1. Three women answered "don't know."

The poll was among a cross section of women voters in all parts of the United States which, for purposes of this poll, were East, Northeast, South, Midwest, Southwest, Northwest, West. Stevenson and Warren were the only prospective nominees named in all seven areas.

The poll of these women, scattered from coast to coast, suggests some political trends bordering on political fact.

Democratic: The women have narrowed the field to Stevenson, Harriman and Kefauver and, like the men, seem to establish Stevenson with a long lead. His strength is the weakness of other Democrats. Stevenson is an established national figure. The others need some of the build-up which Stevenson acquired in the 1952 campaign and has continued to get since. Stevenson also seems to have a good hold on the women.

Republicans: The nomination remains wide open, but with Nixon well in the lead of a large field. Nixon, like Stevenson, rated higher in the women's poll than in the poll of men voters. Chief Justice Warren was second to Nixon in both polls. He has said and repeated that he will not leave the bench to seek political office. His standing among the voters is such, however, that great pressure may be brought on him to re-enter politics. That pressure would come largely in the form of a stop-Nixon movement.

Red Cross Holds Sectional Blood Meeting

Mrs. B. E. Montgomery, recruitment chairman in Harrisburg, Mrs. Warren Tuttle, Service Groups chairman, Mrs. Sceriel Thompson, disaster nurse, and Mrs. John Belt, executive secretary, represented the Saline County Red Cross chapter at a sectional meeting of the chapters in the St. Louis Regional Blood program.

One of the points brought out strongly at the meeting was the fact that the program was a community program which must have the support of all organizations and individuals in the county. Red Cross is only the collecting agency and the local board of directors is responsible for financing the program and providing volunteers from the county to serve in recruitment of donors and staff the center when the bloodmobile is in the county. Every family in the county should participate in the program by at least one member being a blood donor at least once a year.

Every resident of the county is automatically eligible to receive blood needs at no cost for the blood but without the required number of donors each day the bloodmobile is in our county, we can cause a shortage of blood in the center. Anyone called to one of the hospitals in Saline county in an emergency is participating in the program the same as the donor who gives at the bloodmobile operation. There will always be some emergencies as it is impossible for the hospitals to anticipate their needs exactly so they will always have the required type on hand in the quantity needed and donors are often needed until blood can be received from the St. Louis center.

The important thing for all to remember is that the county that is meeting its quota has priority at the center when there is a shortage of blood. To keep Saline county on the priority list we must have 175 productive donors on each of the seven days a year that the bloodmobile is in our county. The next two dates in Saline county are Dec. 28 in Harrisburg and Jan. 5 in Eldorado.

During the last fiscal year, this program saved the individual patients a minimum of $21,050.00.

This community blood program is needed in our county but can not be continued unless the people support it and give the blood.

Dentist, Acquitted In Slaying Wife's Lover, Gets Divorce

DETROIT IP—Dr. Kenneth B. Small, acquitted in the "unwritten law" slaying of his wife's wealthy New York lover, said today he obtained a divorce "so we can all start living new life."

Small, a Detroit dentist, followed his wife, Edith, 31, to a lonely Michigan cottage on May 29, 1954 and shot Jules Lack of New York who was with her at a gay weekend party with a group of house guests.

The dentist was acquitted of a murder charge on a plea of temporary insanity at a sensational trial in a little Allegan, Mich., courtroom. He was committed to a Michigan mental institution. A year ago last September, he was found sane and released from the institution.

After the trial, Mrs. Small and their three young sons went to live with relatives in Los Angeles.

Margaret Listens To Blues With Captain's Successor

LONDON IP—Princess Margaret went night clubbing until the wee hours today with Peter Townsend's successor at Buckingham Palace, but she sat out every dance and just listened to the blues.

The big-eyed princess sent word before she arrived that she wanted Lena Horne to sing the "Beale Street Blues" to her.

Then she sat quietly with 32-year-old Lord Plunket by her side in the Savoy Hotel restaurant and listened with glistening eyes while the American Negro singer moaned the lowdown, sorrowful blues straight from the Mississippi banks.

It was the first time Margaret had returned to the bright lights circuit since she broke off her romance with Townsend only a week ago Monday. But she didn't look gay.

Wife of Columnist Westbrook Pegler Dies

ROME IP—Julia Pegler, 52, wife of American newspaper columnist Westbrook Pegler, died early today of a heart attack while vacationing here with her husband.

Pegler personally announced the death of his wife after informing relatives. He said the body would be flown to New York en route to the Pegler home in Tucson, Ariz.

The couple had been vacationing in Italy for more than a month.

Mrs. Pegler was the former Julia Harpman, a former top reporter on the New York Daily News.

She and the famous columnist were married Aug. 28, 1922.

Peron Claims He Is Short on Funds

PANAMA IP—Juan D. Peron who was accused of stealing millions of dollars from Argentina before he was ousted as dictator, insisted today he was short on funds.

Peron moved to a cheaper hotel Tuesday after reportedly spending about $600 during a two-day stay at the luxurious El Panama Hotel,

GOP Wins 15 Of 18 Races for Commissioner

By United Press

Republicans captured 15 of the 18 seats involved in elections for commissioner in 17 Illinois counties Tuesday, returns showed today.

There was no change in the overall picture, since the GOP had held the same edge prior to the balloting.

Nine commissioners were re-elected, including seven Republicans and two Democrats. The GOP got eight of the other nine seats.

Seventeen Illinois counties are governed by boards of three commissioners. They elect one commissioner a year.

In Scott county, two commissioners were elected Tuesday—one to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Democrat Elmer G. Vortman.

Republican Albert L. Day won Vortman's seat. However, in the other Scott county race, Democrat Oscar B. Boston ousted incoming Republican George H. Evers. County-by-county results include:

Alexander: Carl Oehler (R-I) 4,703, Harold Girard (D) 3,066. Board now has two Republicans, one Democrat.

Hardin: Asa Decker (R) 782, Fred Cook (D) $18. Board remains all GOP.

Johnson: Clint Taylor (R) 1,880, F. Y. Thornton (D) 1,401. Board remains all GOP.

Massac: Henry H. Horntrup (R-I) 868, Carl Eckenberg (D) 625. Board remains all GOP.

Perry: Thomas T. Torrens (R-I) 3,716, Frank Sprenger (D) 3,162. Board remains two Democrats, one Republican.

Pope: Lowell E. Trovillion (R-I) 466 (unopposed). Board remains all GOP.

Pulaski: Carl McIntire (R) 1,665, Dan Finley (D) 1,534. Board remains two GOP, one Democrat.

Soviet Envoy Walks Out on Israel Officials

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Soviet Ambassador Alexander Abramov walked out today on Israeli officials because Foreign Minister Moshe Sharett was a few moments late arriving at the Tel Aviv airport for a flying trip to Washington.

Abramov had gone to the Lydda airport outside Tel Aviv with the American, British and Italian ambassadors to see the Israeli foreign minister leave for Washington and plead Israel's arms cause before American officials.

Abramov went to the airport at 7:30 a. m. and waited a quarter-hour before leaving. He brushed off an explanation by the Israeli chief of protocol that weather had dislocated the timetable and stalled away.

Sharett has not disclosed whether he would meet with State Department officials but it was a foregone conclusion in Tel Aviv he would plead for more arms to offset the Soviet deal by which Egypt is receiving Czech arms.

Little or no military movements were reported today along the front which blazed into action Tuesday along the southernmost corner of the Egypt-Israel border with a clash in which Egypt claimed four Israeli tanks were killed.

In Cairo, Maj. Gen. Abdel Hakim Amer, commander-in-chief of the Egyptian armed forces and Egyptian minister of defense, was appointed supreme commander of the newly established joint Egyptian-Syrian defense system.

Butler, Hall Dispute Vote Significance

They took 74 elections in 105 cities. Republicans, who won only 29 cities, were ousted from control in 48 cities. Two races were won by independents and one was a tie. Such big population centers as Indianapolis, South Bend, and Evansville switched from GOP to Democratic control. The Democrats' previous high point had been 56 cities in 1930.

Pennsylvania

Democrat Richardson Dilworth defeated Republican W. Tacher Longstreth, who had the blessing of President Eisenhower, in the race for mayor of Philadelphia, the nation's third largest city. Democratic retention of the Philadelphia City Hall was viewed as a help to Pennsylvania Democrats. Gov. George M. Leader and something of a blow to Republican Sen. James H. Duff, who is up for re-election next year.

New Jersey

Despite a determined Democratic bid, Republicans retained control of both houses of the Legislature. Democrats had hoped for an upset here to boost their buildup for 1956 and to increase the state power of Democratic Gov. Robert B. Meyner.

Connecticut

Democrats scored sweeping victories in all but one of six cities having partisan elections. In the sixth, Bridgeport, veteran Socialist Mayor Jasper McLevy won his 12th consecutive term.

New York

Incomplete returns from 51 majority contests in New York indicated Democrats had cut into the usually heavy Republican upstate strongholds. Democrats ended a 12-year GOP reign in Troy and upset the GOP incumbent mayor in Schenectady.

The FBI was called into the case Tuesday after the Civil Aeronautics Authority became convinced after a week's intensive study that a "bomb type" blast caused the tragedy.

The CAA found definite evidence of an in-flight explosion but no sign that a mechanical failure or malfunction was responsible.

Webb Burke, FBI agent in charge at Denver, said he was conducting a "preliminary investigation to uncover evidence of sabotage or any other violation of a federal statute."

If any such evidence is found,

FBI Searches For Sabotage In Plane Crash

DENVER (UPI) — The FBI today began a search for evidence of sabotage in the explosion of a United Air Lines DC6B in which 44 persons were killed last week.

The investigation presumably would entail an exhaustive check into the backgrounds of all passengers and crew members on the plane, crewmembers who had access to the plane at Denver and the origin of air freight shipments. Progress, You Know

HORTON BAY, Mich. — [P] Notice to Ernest Hemingway: The elms are gone; the smithy too.

It was in this little northern Michigan community that the famous novelist, then an unknown, convalesced from wounds suffered as an ambulance driver in World War I. He rested beneath the rows of stately elms and gathered material for his stories on northern Michigan in Dilworth's blacksmith shop.

Now, both the elms and the blacksmith shop are gone, victims of a county road-widening project. Local authorities decided the elms presented a traffic hazard and a task force of construction workers cut them down.

The new road will run across the site where Dilworth's smithy stood. Those of the town's 75 inhabitants who remember Hemingway were saddened as they watched the big trees fall. But to others this was just another sign of progress.

Booming Employment, High Income Biggest Political Asset of Republican Party

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The cold statistics of booming employment and the flow of income to individuals and corporations add up to the biggest political asset right now in the Republican locker.

President Eisenhower was the party's most valuable possession until he was stricken Sept. 24. His political value must be marked down somewhat until and unless it is determined that he can lead another presidential campaign.

If he decides not to run again, the Republican campaign will be waged on the issues of peace and prosperity plank as of today, just 12 critical months before next year's presidential election. The boom is on. The reports of personal and corporation income and treasury revenue sound it loud and long.

Way back in the early Roosevelt years there was a familiar saying around election time: "You can't shoot Santa Claus."

Count on Prosperity

The late Alfred Emmanuel Smith wisecracked that one in recognition of the fact FDR was pouring federal funds into channels which led shortly to the pockets of grateful citizens. Republican strategists are convinced that what relief and other federal spending did for Mr. Roosevelt, a basic national prosperity will do for the Republicans and their candidate in November, 1956.

What the Republicans have to fear is the possibility that the boom will ease off between now and election day. That could be deadly.

Even though some farm prices are down and others — pork for example—are seriously depressed, the national economy is setting new records. Personal income in September was reported the highest in the nation's history—at a rate of $307,500,000,000 annually if sustained for a year.

Only last January, Mr. Eisenhower estimated that personal income in the fiscal year ending next June 30 would be $298,500,000,000. The figure steadily has been revised upward. Personal income broke through the 300 billion dollar level last May and hasn't dropped below that figure.

Earnings Exceed Estimates

Corporation annual income was estimated first at $38,500,000,000, then at $40,600,000,000. But third quarter earnings were at an annual rate of 43 billion dollars.

With these money figures come government reports that October employment was 65,161,000 — up nearly half a million over September and more than three million above October, 1954.

All of this represents a lot of money, a lot of buying and a lot of jobs—a boom time economy.

The political significance is that the treasury will get more revenue this year than it had counted on. A tax cut next year, a presidential campaign year, seems almost assured. And there seems a fair prospect that the budget shortly will be balanced—a feat Mr. Eisenhower promised when he ran in November, 1956.

What the Republicans have to fear is the possibility that the boom will ease off between now and election day. That could be deadly.

It is hard for an empty sack to stand upright.—Poor Richard's Almanac

FOLGER'S GIVES YOU MORE FLAVOR PER CUP

Though this was unfair, it made his negotiations difficult. They have now reached an impassable stalemate.

Note 1 — Johnston's motion picture headquarters in Washington, apparently recognizing the stalemate, recently invited friends to a preview of "Hill 24 Does Not Answer," the most ambitious of Israeli films produced to appeal to the American market.

Note 2 — The Czech-Egyptian arms deal is actually a barter deal for cotton. No cash is involved. Meanwhile Secretary Dulles won't let Benson sell U. S. surplus cotton on the world market for fear of hurting the Egyptian economy. A hot backstage debate has been

BATTLE INSIDE THE TEAM going on inside the Eisenhower team over one of the most important problems facing the nation.

It's over the question of a balanced budget or continued foreign aid to the Near East and Far East. It has a direct bearing on tension in the Near East and recent Soviet diplomatic successes all through Asia.

On one side is Secretary of the Treasury George Humphrey, unswerving champion of a balanced budget; together with Undersecretary of State Herbert Hoover Jr., whose daddy while in the White House always shied away from doing much about the rest of the world; and John Hollister, now in charge of foreign aid.

Hollister, former law partner of the late Senator Taft, was appointed to the foreign aid post in order to win the support of the Taft isolationists. However, instead of winning the isolationists over to Eisenhower's side, he has proceeded to woo Eisenhowerites over to the isolationist side. He is the only foreign aid director in history who wants to cut foreign aid.

Opposing the 3-H men — Hollister-Hoover-Humphrey — is Harold Stassen, former foreign aid director, together with many State Department officials.

They point out that Russia today has finally awakened to the effectiveness of Truman - Acheson technical aid — or Point 4 — started 10 years ago. As a result Russia is now offering the same technical aid we once offered — just as the 3-H men want to pull back our advisers and cut the budget.

RUSSIAN INROADS What's happening in Asia and Africa is this:

1. Russian technical experts have arrived in Cairo to train Egyptian troops to operate MiGs, submarines and Russian artillery. Premier Nasser promised special U. S. Envoy George Allen that they wouldn't come, but they've come anyway. Formerly, Egypt got her military advice from England and the U. S. A.

2. Russia has offered to build the long-dreamed-of Aswan dam on the headwaters of the Nile. This would stabilize the Nile, prevent floods, help ameliorate droughts and bring billions of income to Egypt. American engineering firms have been angling for this dam, but Russia now offers to supply the engineers and the money.

3. Russia is starting a road-building program in Afghanistan, the key country on the northern India-Pakistan boundary which protects them from Russia.

4. Russia has invited King Saud of Saudi Arabia to come to Moscow. The invitation has been pressed so vigorously that Saud has been told he can select his own date.

The big difference in coffee is flavor. And Folger's Coffee is specially made to give you more richness, more satisfying flavor in every single cup.

Folger's, you see, is more than good coffee. It's Mountain-Grown coffee . . . blended and prepared with a unique century-old Folger "touch" that produces a truly distinctive, extra rich, tangy flavor. And because Folger's blends to a flavor, not to a formula, you get the same rewarding goodness cup after cup.

Try Mountain-Grown Folger's. See for yourself why millions of coffee lovers say — "There's so much more flavor in a cup of Folger's!"

Opening Concert of Current Series Provides Interesting Performance

By John Schork

The opening concert in the current Harrisburg Community Concert series on Monday evening was a unique and highly diversified attraction billed as "Carmen and Don Jose." The program was definitely planned and presented to appeal to an average audience. Grand opera selections were given added appeal sung in English, and generous offerings of "middle brow" music made the entire performance quite palatable and interesting.

Liv Solveig was cellist for the trio instead of Rosalie Ernest, and played beautifully. Aside from some rather heavy handed piano playing by James Angel, the trio was a delightful group to hear.

For many members of the audience I imagine "Carmen and Don Jose" was just about the most enjoyable sort of attraction one could choose. Certainly there could be no complaints about its being too serious. It was just right.

Lynch led me to his cabin. When he had closed the door he rummaged in the back of a dresser drawer and found one of those combination tool affairs which are made for mechanically inclined travelers. He crawled with it under his bed.

When he emerged he was looking pleased with himself. "I cut the wire. Since Sand knows we know of that convenient device of his, there's no further point in being furtive."

He made himself comfortable in one of the cabin's two chairs.

"The crux of this affair, as it is of any case," he began, "has been one of properly gaging the connection these various people have with one another. About a number of them we still remain ignorant. As you gathered, I couldn't hear everything. But what I did hear was revealing. Manfred Braun regards himself as Meer's manifest superior. He snapped and snarled at him like a Prussian officer ticking off an incompetent servant. Meer accepted it. Braun wanted to know why Meer hadn't reported to him at once on his return to the ship. Meer humbly apologized. Braun was still laboring that theme when I began to listen."

"Braun inquired why Meer's head and neck were bandaged. Meer's explanation was long and confused. But I did hear him repeat the name 'Vogel.' Vogel seemed to be connected in some way with a sketch or drawing. It had been Meer's duty to kill him. He thought he had done so. The attack on him tonight was therefore beyond his comprehension. I had the impression Braun wasn't particularly interested in what had happened to Meer's skull. What he wanted to know was whether the cases of gold were still intact and were where Meer and his party had left them. Meer said that he couldn't be sure that as yet had no reason to believe the chests had been disturbed. Braun then dismissed him."

Lynch shifted his position so he could fix his eyes on mine. "What I found most interesting," he said slowly, "came as Meer was leaving. He was right away across the cabin from the microphone. He did not speak loudly. But I'd be willing to take my oath that what he said was this: 'Gute Nacht, Mein Fuehrer!'"

I softly whistled a single sustained note. "The late Adolf's anointed heir?"

"A reasonable assumption."

I had been sound asleep for several hours when I suddenly found myself wide awake. The engines, deep in the yacht's hull, had been started. At the same time I heard footsteps and low voices and the creaking of a pulley. I glanced at my watch. It was 4:30. I put on slippers and went out on deck. Lynch, in pajamas, was there ahead of me.

At another clang of the engine room telegraph the white yacht forged slowly ahead. It did not go far. At about half a mile from shore, in the lee of the dark headland, the Vittoria came gradually to a halt again. At a low call from Carey, one of the big bow anchors was let go with a rattling of chain and a resounding splash.

Lynch gripped my arm and whispered: "Listen!"

For a moment I did not know what he meant. Then I heard. Off somewhere in the darkness of the Haitian hills there was a sound of drumming. Lynch cheerfully slapped me on the shoulder.

"Run along now, Bobby, and get more sleep. I have some messages to finish."

I was up again early. The only other member of our not-so-select company who was up so early was Dr. Lund. I joined him at the rail.

His opening remark was unexpected. "There is so much beauty in the world!"

Since I was not in the mood for philosophy, I changed the subject.

"This your first trip to the West Indies, Doctor?"

"The first time I have traveled outside Europe."

"You're making your voyage in curious company."

"Why do you say that?"

"Would you call this a conventional yachting party? Meer, the disciplined fanatic who still doesn't know his cause was buried forever in the ruins of the Reichschancellery, Braun his leader—"

"His what?" Dr. Lund asked quietly.

"So Mr. Lynch and I understand." I went on casually. "In this conflict of interests aboard here, he, curiously, seems to be the central figure. That upsets you?"

Dr. Lund smiled. "As any citizen of my small country would be if he learned the snake he thought dead still had life in it."

"The remaining puzzle," I went quietly.
